National Croquet Center Luncheon

Guest Speaker: Heather Alkire

What a fabulous day in Palm Beach. Guest Speaker Heather Alkire our newest member to Palm Beach Council spoke about our local website and dazzled us with her expertise. She introduced us to Twitter and Facebook and how to like these on our own Facebook and twitter accounts.

The website address is

www.navyleague-pbcouncil.org

Heather began working in the information technology field while stationed in Yongsan Korea. She served as the Information Management Officer and Information System Security Officer for United States Army Troop Command—Korea. Since then she has applied her trade in many different industries such as health care, non-profit, and membership driven organizations. She is hoping to assist with updating the website and integrating social media.

Another major highlight the afternoon began with a surprise presentation by the Palm Beach Council to recognize the contributions our own WWII Veteran and Council Member Colonel James Wells USMC. He served in 3 wars and went from Enlisted to Officer. Not many can do that and rise to Colonel. After serving in the US Military he became a prominent Attorney in Palm Beach.

Colonel Wells you are most deserving of this honor and distinction for all of your meritorious service and lifetime achievements.

Thank You for all that you have done and continue to do for the betterment of mankind.

We opened the meeting thanking the staff at National Croquet Center Scott Reiser and his Mom Carol Reiser, Ishwar, Christian and Catherine for assisting with the room, service and all the technical free support provided. Croquet was being played on the grounds. The setup was nice and food was delicious.
